ONE ACTIVITY FOR A COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED

A Committee of One Hundred, or similar organization, created for the purpose of conducting a campaign for a moral regeneration of the community, would find abundant opportunity for activity beginning with the hour the organization is completed.

For instance, it could begin at once to take steps that due course would result in the eradication of the disorderly houses. In preparation for this much needed renovation the committee could compile a list of the owners of properties in different parts of the city that are being used for immoral purposes. The necessary information would not be difficult to procure. Part of it could be obtained from the police court records which show that periodical raids are made of certain premises but so far as the public is aware, without effecting a change in the character of these premises. Some members of the police force could supply still other information of a very definite character.

Persons residing in the vicinity of properties bearing a few plainly discernible marks of the purposes to which they are applied would form a third source of information. Reference to the assessment and tax records would serve to verify the ownership.

Such a list, supplemented by the names of persons who are engaged in the business of procuring inmates for such houses—of whom the city is reputed to have several, all more or less well known—would form a base from which to make an effective assault upon such evil about which, next to illegal trafficking in liquor, the greatest number of complaints has been made.

Armed with data of this kind the committee could start something in the line of a clean-up that would go to the very root of the evil. The law relating to the renting of buildings, dwellings, apartments or rooms for immoral purposes is very explicit and provides penalties of sufficient severity to inspire a wholesome fear in the hearts of greedy owners who exact excessive rents because of the knowledge that tenants of this class are willing to pay.

The practice of raiding such premises, and fining the inmates or proprietors, which has been the only method employed under the present administration, accomplishes nothing in the direction of abating the evil.
The payment of a fine is no penalty and in no wise acts as a deterrent. If the raided premises are not immediately re-occupied by the same parties, they find other quarters and new tenants of the same stamp are ready to move into the vacated premises. Thus the number of such establishments increases in proportion to the activity of the police in making raids. But that merely makes the situation worse, does not remedy it.

The more certain remedy lies with compelling the property owner who sides and abets the evil and who makes its continuance possible, to face the consequences of his own violations of the law. Vigorous prosecution of such offenders will bring them to a realizing sense of the responsibility resting upon them and do more in one day or a week to banish the disorderly house than all the raids the police could make in a month.

This fact has already had very convincing demonstration right here at home. A few years ago the citizens of Hill Crest, annoyed beyond endurance by a pest in their near neighborhood, which the authorities failed to abate, arose in their righteous might and drove the nuisance out.
Incidentally they gave the owner of the property so strong a hint of what was in prospect that the premises have never to this day been occupied by the same class of tenants who had previously made the house a plague spot.

Securing authority from the sheriff the determined citizens raided the house, took the inmates to jail and later secured their conviction. Meantime they had heard heartily with the owner of the property who was made to see the point of the objections raised and thus escaped what would have very probably been a prosecution.

It should not be any part of the duty of a Committee of One Hundred to engage in raiding houses or in any manner taking upon themselves the duties of police officers. By confining its work to securing information, of the kind indicated, and bringing to the attention of properly officers, to the fact that such information was in possession of the committee, this organization would be in position to take such other steps as might be necessary to accomplish its purpose, should the property owners evince a disposition to refuse to join in the clean-up movement. Such a campaign would not contemplate relieving any officer of the law of his responsibility or duty.
Rather would it make it imperative for him to act with dispatch and in entire good faith in the discharge of that duty and undeterred by any influence tending to cause an evasion or side-stepping.

The function of the committee in such matters would be to act as the agent of the great body of the people who as individuals are powerless to impel the authorities to do their duty, or to influence or shame property owners into divorcing themselves from the unholy partnerships with vice which they form through renting their property for immoral purposes.

The foregoing is merely an outline of a single activity upon which a Committee of One Hundred could enter.
It is of so great importance that to prepare to engage in it as one of the steps toward a purging of the city, can well challenge the thought and attention of those loyal citizens who feel that the stigma and reproach resting upon us should be removed.

With the thoroughness with which a surgical removal, a cautious growth from the human body.

EXALTING SERVICE.

Persons who apply the dollar as the unit of measurement to service and attainments can not understand "Mother" Whittemore, who gave so dramatic a recital of the career of "Della," the Bluebird of Mulberry Bend here on Sunday. That she, a woman over 70 years of age, a person of refinement and culture and independently wealthy in her own right, should leave a home possessing every creature comfort and travel up and down the country, week after week, at her own expense and make appeal to the public to support the work of the Salvation Army, is quite beyond the comprehension of people who are as earnestly striving for wealth as this woman is, zealously expending hers in behalf of people wholly "below her station," as the former make social distinctions.

Now, these people ask, can she find enjoyment or pleasure in visiting the slum districts of the cities and coming in contact with thieves, thugs and women of the underworld? To those whose ideas and notions of pleasure comprehend a life of luxury, social safety and large expenditures to satisfy their personal whims and tastes, it is absurd to think of engaging in a work like that to which Mrs. Whittemore has devoted her time, means and talents.

That such people fail to appreciate what Mrs. Whittemore has done and is doing is because they have never learned the meaning of the terms; service and sacrifice. Content as they have always been to be served and to have their wants supplied without thought or concern of the needs of others, and rarely, if ever, having experienced restraint of their own desires, they do not know the joy that comes to the unselfish souls, like Mrs. Whittemore, who find their greatest joy and pleasure in forgetting themselves in serving and giving in order that others may have some want satisfied.

Mrs. Whittemore is doing more than a magnificent work in behalf of the Salvation Army and the unfortunate and distressed to whom its service is given without stint. By sacrificing all that others would regard as the essentials to happiness and pleasure, she has found both in the largest measure and in exalting service for others to a high estate. Without uttering a word in condemnation of those who are devotees of what she has discarded in her life, the example of her kindly ministrations to the outcast and leavily has become a rebuke to those who are without desire or willingness to deprive themselves of even a single vanity in order that they may perform some real service in the world.

The world needs more people, both women and men, with largeness of soul like that of Mrs. Whittemore.
Even Conneautville has fields of activity in which such people could do much or less others and make their own lives worthwhile.

A NEW FRICK SCALE.

The speculation as to how the H. C.
Frick Coke company will compile a new scale of wages based upon the 20 per cent reduction for common labor in the manufacturing plants of the United States Steel Corporation, what the new rates for coke region labor will be, and when the policy will be posted, may afford occupation for persons not otherwise busily engaged but that is about as far as the efforts of the speculators will go in the matter of determining these questions.

It has always been the policy of the Frick company to keep its own counsels on all questions relating to wages and to choose its own time and manner of making announcement of changes. In the present instance there is no reason to surmise that the policy will be changed. Governed in the preparation of each successive scale by the industrial situation, and striking at all times to maintain wages at the highest standard possible to be paid under prevailing conditions, it is quite safe to assume that there will be no departure from these principles in drafting the new scale.

The effect of the announcement of a reduction by the United States Steel Corporation was discounted more than a month ago by the adoption of a new scale by the independent coke producers. It was the common understanding that a reduction by the Frick company was but a matter of time, the necessity for a reduction being everywhere recognized. Inasmuch as action was not earlier taken by the steel corporation the independent producers felt that the time could no longer be deferred for readjusting wages at their operations in view of the very marked decline in the market price of coke and the steadily increasing demand, when meant still deeper cuts into the selling price. Accordingly the decision was made to wait no longer for the steel corporation to take the initiative.

The latter holding as the coke subsidiary will now make its adjustment of wages in accordance with the adjustments governing the reduction by the steel corporation and without the necessity of citing to its assistance the newspaper prophets and others who have been planning it all out ready for the Frick officials to "sign here."

Luke Potts' thing the "last ultimatum" to Germany has been given again.

ANOTHER ACTIVITY FOR COM- MITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED.

A much esteemed friend of the Courier, and equally ardent advocate of a morally as well as a physically clean city, and who stands ready to take membership in a Committee of One Hundred and contribute both his time and means to furthering its mission, makes another suggestion as to an activity such an organization can engage in.

Briefly stated it is the compilation of a Directory of Master Bootleggers.
By that term he means those persons who are engaged in furnishing liquor to the joints, so-called clubs and individuals who serve as retail distributors to the "bimboes" inclined.

In the estimation of this citizen, who has acquired some very interesting information as to the identity, methods, practices and places of business of the Master Bootleggers, the transactions of the members of this fraternity have assumed large proportions, are conducted with increasing boldness and have yielded very large returns. This informant further asserts that the Master Bootleggers, more than the gum-shoe journeymen and apprentices who sneak about in the alleys abutting on Crawford avenue to await the arrival of customers "steered" to them by a confederate who loiters in the vicinity of the unloading street cars, are by far the worst offenders. If they could be apprehended and punished a very decisive step would be taken in the direction of breaking up the whole bootlegging industry.

The suggestion as to the part a Committee of One Hundred would take in this matter would be to first prepare a complete list of the Master Bootleggers. A number of them have already been identified, some having considerable prominence in certain circles and have attained a degree of prosperity that would seem to make it wholly unnecessary to pursue their present occupation as a means of keeping the wolf from the door. Others would need somewhat more investigation before they could be definitely enrolled as masters of their craft. It is entirely possible that some have operated with so much discretion that their identity has not yet been revealed except to a limited number of subordinates who can be trusted to preserve secrecy, so long as they are stimulated by the profit arising therefrom.

With such a field for operations the preparation of a Directory of Master Bootleggers offers unusual and inviting opportunities to test the skill, patience and resources a properly recruited and organized Committee of One Hundred would possess. When finally completed, and a supplement added including the names of bartenders serving in the dispensaries and the license numbers of the automobiles and trucks engaged in distribution of supplies, the directory would form a companion volume to the Directory of Property Owners Who Aid and Abet Vice by Renting Houses for Immoral Purposes. With this equipment the Committee of One Hundred should be in position to start a campaign that would produce some thrills, a number of revelations and very likely cause no little consternation in certain quarters.

ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT.

The warning of President Harding to the governmental departments that expenditures must be kept within the limits of the appropriations, and the warning of Secretary of the Treasury to Congress that there must be limitations placed upon appropriations, are steps in the direction of economy in public expenditure with which the lawyers and the public will be in entire accord.

By reason of the enormous increase in the public debt due to the war and the corresponding increase in cost of administration, a halt must be called in the prodigal appropriation and the equally prodigal expenditure of the public's money. While many understandings may be desirable to be entered upon, they will have to be deferred. The government, in this respect, must pursue the same course as an individual who, desiring to acquire some new possession finds that, because of the lack of money with which to buy, he prudently decides to forego making the purchase.

There are no doubt many useful and helpful things the government could do in many lines, but the people have thus far been able to get along very well without further multiplication of governmental activities and they can continue to do so, just as they have learned to do without in their individual lives.

To what extent department heads and Congress will heed the warnings given remains to be seen, but the average citizen is inclined to the view that the readiness with which both fall in step with a plan to conduct the government on business principles, will be the measure of their wisdom and their fidelity as public servants.

The admission of Major General Harris, adjutant general of the army, that he was responsible for the order permitting Slacker-Bergdoll to go in search of his "pot of gold" ought to elect him for immediate dismissal from the service. Rainbow chasing is not a qualification of a soldier; not even of one holding a swivel chair job.

If the American Express company would now make a reduction in the time required to move a package from point of shipment to destination, it would be vastly more popular than the reduction in wages to become effective June 1.

With some of the "higher-ups" in the Bergdoll release diagram, exchanging compliments, like "moral and physical coward," "unmitigated ass," "liar" and other choice epithets, there is hope that there will be such a falling out between them that the public will yet learn the whole truth about who is responsible for the "pot of gold" adventure.

PAROLE IS TO BE DENIED RECKLESS MOTOR DRIVERS

Judge Van Swearingen So Announces in Heavily Fining Them.

GIVEN YEAR TO PRISON

Walter Part of Sentence Will Be Remitted After Men in Event of Payment of Fine and Compensation: Adoption of Child Approved.

In passing sentence Tuesday at the weekly session of court in Uniontown on Leslie Bowden and Albert Kagan for reckless operation of an automobile, Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen declared that no parole would be considered in such cases. The defendants were alleged to have run down Esther Wadsworth at Briar Hill.

The court imposed a fine of $250 each and compensation of $75 each and ordered them committed to the Allegheny county workhouse for a year with the understanding that the prison sentence will be remitted if the fine, costs and compensation are paid.

An order of court was made for the adoption by Herman O. and Mary E. Walker of Connellsville of Dorothy Wadsworth, minor child of John C. Gibbons. The mother died some time ago leaving several children. Since then Dorothy has been cared for by the Walkers. The father agreed to the adoption.

Charles Detemple of Connellsville was called to court for violation of his parole and eight months added to the time he will be under restriction. Detemple pleaded guilty along with two others to larceny and was sentenced to pay the costs and remain in custody of the parole officer until February 1922. In January he went to Chicago and for four months failed to report. The court doubled the time of his sentence and added it to the parole period.

Walter Greenleaf of Pittsburgh was sentenced to pay $35 a month to Mrs. Russell Shanaberger, a daughter for the support of another daughter, Eleanor who has been cared for by Mrs. Shanaberger since the father deserted them seven years ago and since which time it was testified, he had contributed but $22 for the support of Eleanor. Mrs. Shanaberger also supported her mother to the time of her death.

Residents of Springfield township presented a petition asking for the appointment of a board of viewers to inspect a bridge of Laurel run near Rogers Mill with a view to having it repaired.

Citizens Press Springfield Road Paving Project

Connellsville and Mill Run men interested in the success of the Springfield township road project paid a visit to the county commissioners in Uniontown Monday to urge that the contract for the work be awarded. When the bids are opened at Harrisburg, May 10. They conferred with Commissioners George W. Hibbs and George Orval Rusk. Commissioners Hibbs and Rusk were assured that the commissioners would do what they could and promise was made that if two bids are submitted and the price is within reason they will urge the awarding of the contract.

The party were J. C. Stuckel, Meyer, Aaron, George Blackstone, J. H. Hopper, J. Lemon Hatt, Stanton, F. Dell and John S. Miller of Connellsville and Frank B. Livingston, W. S. Colborn and George S. Rowan of Mill Run. Normalville was to have been represented by a delegation named for that place but failed to join the party.

There is talk of reorganizing the Connellsville Automobile club for the purpose of pressing the matter of the improvement to a conclusion.

It has been explained that the reason the bid recently opened was rejected was because there was no competitive bidding.

Commissioners Inspect Crawford Avenue Bridge

County Commissioners George W. Hibbs, George Orval Rusk and J. Seagriff Marshall and County Engineer E. C. McCutcheon conferred Monday afternoon with members of the council relative to repairs to the Crawford Avenue bridge over the river.

The commissioners ordered the engineer to make a detailed inspection of the structure and promised that the necessary repairs will be made. Council had asked that the bridge be given attention.

New Game Code Is Signed By Sproul

HARRISBURG, May 5.—Governor Sproul has signed the Capitol House bill making numerous changes to the game code and immediate steps will be taken by the state game commission to publish the new provision, and to arrange for enforcement during the coming season.

Under the long bill previously approved some changes were made in the hunters license act which included requirement that tags be displayed on the back of a hunter.

Train 62 Unchanged.

The change in the Baltimore & Ohio schedule does not affect train No. 62 which arrives here at 6:40 P. M. on usual time. Train No. 15 also is unchanged at 1:35 P. M.

SECTION FOREMEN OF S. & C. BRANCH MADE FIRE WARDENS

HARRISBURG, May 5.—All the section foremen of the Somerset & Cambria branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have been made special forest fire wardens according to a report sent to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry by District Forester V. M. Bearer of Ligonier. The railroad men will cooperate with the State Department of Forestry in the extinction of fires along the railroad tracks in their districts. Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio have announced their intention of developing safety strips along the tracks as fast as practicable.

Several sporting clubs in the Forbes state forest district have been active in the suppression of forest fires recently. Members of the Laurel Hill Rod & Gun club, of Waterford put out a fire near Good Hope church. Representatives of the Ligonier Rod & Gun club and of the Knapp Tunnel club also responded to the call. A fire along Lynn run was put out by the Rock Run club of Ligonier.

Forester Bearer recently started legal action against David Dunmire, Walter Eike and Lloyd Dunmire on the charge of setting fire to woodland. It is alleged that those men started a fire in the woods in Summit township Somerset county last October.

Forester Bearer gave a talk on forest fire prevention before the Jefferson grange of Somerset last week. As a result of this meeting it is probable that a protective association will be organized in that district by the owners of woodland.

General Orders Issued Showing Table of Reorganization.

MACHINE GUN CO. NOW "D"

New Unit at Beaver Falls Takes That Designation; Companies C, F and I Remain Rifle Organizations; M and H Both Machine Gun Cos.

It has been definitely decided that Connellsville is to retain the Medical Detachment which is to be the new designation of what was formerly called the Sanitary Detachment, and still earlier the Hospital Corps of the 110th Infantry. Pennsylvania National Guard.

General orders have been issued from headquarters of the regiment, Waynesburg by Colonel Martin which announce the table or reorganization of the regiment and the home stations of the several units, and the assignments of officers to command them.

The Medical Detachment is thus shown to have been located in Connellsville with Captain Jas. L. Junk, Harry F. Bailey and Albert I. Thompson as the medical officers in charge. The order does not indicate that the two dental surgeons, one of whom is expected to be Dr. Russell F. Engleke of Connellsville had been assigned at the time the order was issued.

A previous order assigned Captain George Dewick, 1st and First Lieutenant George A. Marietta to the command of the Howitzer Company the successor of Company D. The Machine Gun Company at Beaver Falls is now designated Company D. Companies M at Latrobe and H at Washington have been changed to machine gun organizations each retaining its

day Night

NEW HOME IS PROPOSED

Probable Steps Will Be Taken in Time to Secure Permanent Quarters For Army; Colonel Thomas Stanton and Staff Here May 21 and 22.

At a meeting held in council chamber Thursday night the Salvation Army advisory board was formally organized. Representative citizens from this section of the county were present and many expressions of appreciation for the work done by the army were heard.

J. B. Henderson, who presided at the meeting, was unanimously elected chairman of the board. J. E. Wallace, secretary and J. L. Kurtz, treasurer. Others elected on the board are Rev. J. L. Frouth, G. Corrado, T. J. Hooper, John L. Gans, P. J. Tormay, John Davies, A. R. Duncan and John Duggan, of Connelville; Benton Boyd of Trotter; H. M. McDonald of Dawson; W. A. Cosgrove of Vanderbilt and Joseph M. Zimmers of Scottsdale.

The mayor advocated a permanent home for the army corps. "You will see in return service that you have not made a mistake," he said. "The men pledged themselves to care for this matter when the proper time arrives."

George A. Lancaster, district supervisor for the Salvation Army, outlined the plan for the advisory board, telling of its work and duties.

Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and 22, Colonel Thomas Stanton of Pittsburgh and his staff will pay an official visit to the Salvation Army of Connelville. It will be their first visit here. Colonel Stanton has charge of the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia division of the Salvation Army with headquarters in Pittsburgh. For a number of years he traveled with Commander Evangeline Booth, Mrs. Stanton being the commander's secretary.

Colonel Stanton will deliver a number of addresses while in Connelville and will be interested in procuring better facilities for the work of the local corps. A musical entertainment will be given Saturday evening in the army hall by Colonel Stanton's staff. All are invited.

Grand Army Men Visit Vanderbilt and Other Schools

Talks on patriotism and the annual celebration of Memorial Day on Monday, May 30, were given by a committee from William F. Kurtz Post No. 104, Grand Army of the Republic, who visited the public schools at Vanderbilt, Liberty and Leisnering No. 1 yesterday. In the party were W. F. Clark, W. H. Shaw, Captain E. Dunn, Colonel J. A. Barnhart, Lyman S. Strickler, A. R. Brashers and Rev. J. S. Showers, an honorary member of the post. Dr. J. H. Hazlett of Vanderbilt accompanied the committee. The visit was made following an invitation from the heads of the schools and the committee was cordially received and the students promised their support in the Memorial Day program.

Following the same custom as last year the local post will observe Memorial Day in Connelville in the morning and in the afternoon will go to Vanderbilt. Further plans for the exercises will be announced as soon as they are completed by the committee.

The Vanderbilt school was first visited and from there the committee went to Liberty, where at noon luncheon was served by the school superintendent, Mr. Keller, and Miss Porter, Miss Palmer, Miss Leighty and Miss Snyder, teachers. From Liberty the veterans went to Paul and on their way home stopped off at the grade schools at Leisnering, having spoken before the students of the high school over a week ago. Later they will go to Trotter. They will complete their visits to the schools in that district.

Thirty Counties In State Lose in Rural Population

HARRISBURG, May 5.—The extent of the drift from the rural sections in the last few years is disclosed in federal population statistics for Pennsylvania, which show that more Pennsylvania counties decreased in rural population during the 10 years from 1910 to 1920 than fell in their total population. While 21 counties decreased in total population, the figures made public by the United States Census Bureau show that more than 30 fell off in rural population—that is in the number of persons living outside of incorporated places of 2,500 or more.

Only four counties, Greene, Montour, Potter and Wayne, showed a decrease in urban population and the greatest of these decreases was in Potter where it fell off 42.3 per cent. During the preceding 10 years there was an increase in urban population in Potter county of 213 per cent. The urban population of Potter county is 5,685 and the rural 15,284.
